

An aerial photograph of a golf course green. The green is a large, circular area of grass with several sand traps (bunkers) of various shapes. A paved path runs along the left side of the green. Two golf carts are parked on the path. Several people are visible on the green, some standing and some walking. The surrounding area is lush with green grass and trees. The lighting suggests it is either early morning or late afternoon, with long shadows cast across the grass.
